10 JEWELRY ESSENTIALS

The 10 Must-Have Jewelry Items

It's the time of year when so many men ask: "What gift would truly show how much I love her?" To help solve that mystery, Ben Bridge Jeweler asked thousands of women across the country, "What are the most indispensable jewelry pieces that you have (or wish you could have) in your collection?" The responses were always enthusiastic—and sometimes surprising.

We've compiled our findings to create this year's 10 Jewelry Essentials holiday gift guide. It is our sincere hope that it serves as inspiration to both gift givers and hint droppers alike. Based on the passionate responses we received, any item from this catalog will be a sure-fire hit for the holidays.

The Essentials: Watches

A woman's cell phone can tell her the time, but it won't tell her she's loved like the gift of a luxury timepiece. Perfectly fusing function and fashion, a watch is the one piece of jewelry a woman says she "feels naked without." And when she opens that distinctively shaped box, you'll know this time you got it just right.

The Essentials: Pearls

Make her holiday glisten with a gift of lustrous pearl jewelry. Traditionally, girls received their first pair of pearl earrings or a pearl necklace to mark a Sweet 16 birthday or other milestone event. And, though times have changed in many ways, the natural beauty and versatility of pearls make them a style of jewelry no woman should be without.

The Essentials: Precious Metals

For decades, yellow gold ruled the jewelry box. This classic metal is still a beloved choice but now shares the throne with its "sisters": rose gold, white gold and sterling silver. Though often used as a base for sparkling gemstone jewelry, each of these precious metals is remarkably beautiful on its own and worthy of a place in every woman's jewelry collection.
